Profile

My dream and my passion is to write. I take pleasure in any kind of writing, and have completed writing for a range of purposes as a freelancer. I was once a teacher, so I know the meaning of hard work. The areas I excel in and enjoy the most are writing for children and writing for parents.

Experience

Product Development Manager
Twink Education Publishing
January 2022 - Present

I use site search trends to identify opportunities to make new and exciting education resources. I product manage the creation and publication of these resource, using my knowledge of teaching alongside my skills as a writer and editor to oversee their creation.

Creative Writer
Numberfit
March 2021- July 2022

I wrote as part of a team designing and writing the narrative to accompany the Mathematics World Cup and the Mathematics World Series. Using my experience of teaching, I wrote an engaging script that built movement and mindful activities into a video story.

Children's Writer
Freelance

April 2019 - Present

I write my own books, which I am looking to get published. I have one novel, Lucy Green: Robotics Queen, which has been picked up by a STEM charity and will be published in autumn 2022.

Educational Content Writer
CGP

April 2021 - Present

Using a given list of statements from the English National Curriculum, I ideate and write original resources designed to be used by both education practitioners and parents.

Ghostwriter
Freelance

January 2021 - Present

I've written and contributed to stories, novels, blogs, web copy, articles, scripts, graphic novels, and apps. I've been granted permission from some IP holders to share excerpts.

Class Teacher
Broom Leys Primary School, Foxton primary School

August 2015 - January 2022

Teaching the National Curriculum to a class of primary school children. Taking responsibility for their development and achievements and working with a range of stakeholders to achieve this.
